In a court where magic acts as a lady's dowry, a healer never expected to capture the interest of the king. When a prophecy declares Lavinia Bruis will be the queen to heal the land from a magical rot, she must determine her true loyalty: her kingdom or her heart.

The man who holds her heart, her brother's best friend and powerful fire wielder, Oran Lennox, has long been torn between the rebel cause his father died for and his love for Lavinia. When the fates of the rebellion and the woman he loves become intertwined, Oran will sacrifice anything to save Lavinia and the rebels from the king's cruelty.

Together, the two must discover if love can fight fate.
